

Lady Betty

A 125-year-old British maiden at her best

Originally used as an Admiral's launch, this ship was built in England in 1894 under the reign of Queen Victoria and has become the oldest floating ship in Venice! Before moving to Venice in 2019, the majestic former steamboat was completely restored by Dennett Boat Builders on the Thames and converted to hybrid propulsion. This enables you to enjoy the silence of electric propulsion without losing the capability and secureness of a new Perkins Diesel engine as a backup and allowing more power where ever needed.

Fact sheet

- Engine power = 8 KW, electric engine / 34 hp Perkins diesel engine
- Battery capacity = 6-8 hours continuous operation
- Length of the boat = 10,30 meters
- How many guests can board? = 12 persons
- Food on board? = 10 - 12 persons, no dinner but our Venetian lunch on board
- Toilet on board? = Yes, but rather in case of emergency
- Cabin on Bord? = No

- Bed/rest zone on board? = No
- Kitchen on board? = No, but fridge and sink
- Rain protection? = Yes
- Sun protection? = Yes